COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

DARKENS BEAUTIFULLY AND RESTORES ITS NATURAL COLOR AND LUSTRE AT ONCE

Common garden sage brewed into a "sage tea," with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the sage tea and sulphur: recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, costing about 10 cents a bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application of two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

AMERICANS ARE TRAPPED INTO ENGLISH ARMY

OFTEN HAVE HARD TIME PROVING CITIZENSHIP

London Police Under Conscription Laws Are Grabbing All Super-Slackers and Are Not Particular Whether They Get Americans. Citizens From Holland, Spain and Other Countries Also Have Trouble

By WILBUR E. FORREST
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, Sept. 18.—By mail—American men of military age who come to England just now had better bring their birth certificates. They will need them and more to convince the British authorities they are not super-slackers. The super-slackers—men who have failed to register under the military conscription act—are daily falling into the net which the war office has set for them. Americans are being netted in almost every haul. If they fail to have the documentary evidence handy they are liable to remain as "guests" of the London police until someone in Ambassador Page's office can look up the records.

When a crowded tube train arrived at its terminus a few days ago, the male passengers were herded into a big enclosure. Two men who had evaded conscription wept. Others hastily sent for their wives and the necessary papers. An American newspaper man, whose name is well known to readers of a big New York paper, was in the "catch." He proved his identity when the opportunity arose, and was freed. The authorities, however, led a score of men off to the district police station, where they spent the night. More than half were super-slackers.

The raid system is only a part of the big campaign to rope in the military shirkers. Careful examination of registration cards held by all aliens is going forward. The Americans, as well as Dutch, Spanish, Swiss, Argentinians and other neutrals are required to show why they are not serving in the British army. They answer that they are neutral. The swift reply is "prove it." Here's how one American proved it.

The mail brought a document requesting him to appear at a big recruiting office September 2d to join his majesty's forces. The American wrote the recruiting officer that he was an American citizen, and therefore exempt. Twelve hours later back came the officer's answer. "Prove it." The American mailed his passport, issued by the state department at Washington, and enclosed a courteous note suggesting that this "should eliminate all doubt." The passport got lost in the mail. September 2d was drawing near, and three days later there was no word from the recruiting officer. This meant that a pair of soldiers would probably appear soon at the American's doorstep and take him along as a super-slacker. He called the officer on the telephone.

"I've sent you my passport; isn't that proof enough?" he queried. "Makes no difference," was the reply, "you may be an American all right, but you'll have to prove it." So the American proved it by having the American embassy write the recruiting officer a letter. Then the recruiter apologized.

It is one of the many narrow escapes from khaki that Americans are having just now.

American Woman Visits Trenches in France

Mrs. Franklin Adams, wife of the well known writer, is here shown in the trenches in France with the police, who guided her and other Americans about. She is the first American woman other than one who had business in the war to go to a trench when it was actually within reach of the German guns.

He Wouldn't Run Church Like a Store; Was Fired

United Press Service
BALTIMORE, Oct. 3.—The Rev. Mercer Green Johnston, who resigned the pastorate of Holy Trinity church, Newark, N. J., rather than preach to please the sinners, was to arrive here today "to organize a fellowship of clergy who shall fight for freedom and preach the gospel of social righteousness."

"My vestrymen wanted me to run my church like a grocery store—to please the consumers," said Rev. Mr. Johnston, "and I couldn't quite do it. I turned loose some real religion. The church wanted the conventional, and it objected. I imagine this element in the vestry represents the real desire of the congregation—for 'brilliant piffle,' as I have heard it described. A photograph and a few well chosen records could deliver the kind of religion they want. Then, too, one can control a photograph with a touch of the hand."

The idea of preaching "straight from the shoulder religion" came to the Rev. Johnston prior to 1914, when he with Richard Wallace Hogue, the Rev. A. W. Arundel of St. George, New York, and a dozen other deliberately planned to preach twentieth century religion from the Episcopal pulpit, and take what consequences were coming. Mr. Hogue left his church and Dr. Arundel resigned from Trinity, Pittsburg, in 1913.

The Rev. Johnston will be associated with Hogue in his work in Baltimore. It is possible that he may take another parish, but only on a warm invitation from all the members, and with the frank understanding that he will speak his thoughts without limitation from the church members.

DIDN'T CLOSE GATE; FREIGHT SMASHES CAR

Won't Shoot Birds; Knows How it Feels

United Press Service

CAPETOWN, S. A., Oct. 3.—"I will never shoot at birds again; I know their feelings now," wrote Second Lieutenant McCubbins, the boy who brought down Immelman, to his father in Capetown.

"It is a weird sensation. You hear a burst, then you see a puff of smoke of different colors, and hear scrapnel whistling by. If you don't alter your course every few seconds you get biffed."

McCubbins is in a London hospital recovering from wounds. He is not quite 19 years old.
